THE LION OF 1947

Published by THE SENIOR CLASS of RED LION HIGH SCHOOL, RED LION, PA.

Foreword

From September till June, our school life has been studded with dates that will long be remembered by all of us. These dates are a part of us, be they just common every-day occurrences or something special—perhaps something we see or do only once in a lifetime.

This year our school calendar has been literally sprinkled with dances, assemblies, plays, and athletic events. To us they have meant wondering and waiting, excitement and disappointment, and sometimes even fear in anticipation of a tough football contest.

It is our effort, therefore, to offer you a year with the students of Red Lion High, to give you an opportunity to live it with us, and see if you don't agree that, though we spend nine of the twelve months of the year in school, we enjoy them more than we could ever enjoy twice that number without the many events and activities on our school calendar.

The months have passed by now, having brought to us new phases of athletics, new dramatic productions, new musical talents, and many other entertainments. From September to June—from the beginning of high school life by the Freshmen to the end of secondary school learning by the Seniors —is the time that we have lived, worked, and played together as one big happy family.

Our supervising principal, MR. DAN B. KULP, B.S., M.A., pauses in his daily routine of duties to give a few words to the students of Red Lion High School.

To the Students:

I am indeed glad to bring greetings from the administration through the yearbook to all of you. This publication helps interpret the school to the public and assists in developing better understanding between the school and community, thus helping to build a better school. No successful school can stand still—it must go forward, not backward.

We now face the greatest opportunity that has ever confronted an educational institution. There are more problems to be solved, and therefore more opportunities for solving them. An education should aim at the production of men and women with conscience, consecration, and character who have been trained for responsible living.

Red Lion High School is bending every energy to prepare itself in spirit, in curriculum, in activities, in equipment to render the greatest possible service to you, to the community, and to the nation. We must move forward, meeting each day's needs and planning for future progress.

Sincerely your friend,

DAN B. KULP.

Whether the day is warm and balmy or snowy and frigid enough to make the mercury gradually slip down in the thermometer, some seven hundred students from points north, east, south, and west find their way daily to the school on the hill. With a "stack" of books under one arm, we swing open the green doors and enter our building, walk over the diamond designed hallways, glance at the nearest bulletin board to see if anything interesting has developed, check with our own watches or someone else's to make sure we arrived in plenty of time, and then go to our homerooms.

From 8:35 to 3:40 we attend classes in our respective courses, work in study halls, do research in the school library, take time out for lunch in the cafeteria, and attend rehearsals and meetings of the various organizations in which we claim membership. For these eight hours our lives are guided by bells, the sound of which we alternately hope for and dread, depending on what comes next.

For one hundred and eighty days this is our schedule—and then presto! vacation! But would you believe it? Before the summer is over, many of us, admittedly or not, become a bit anxious to begin again that life of bells, study and fun.

Dance Band

When the school started in the fall of 1946, the dance band, now a year old, was reorganized and began the long work of building itself into a smooth working organization. These "swingsters" first appeared in public at the local Youth Centre where they were widely acclaimed. Next they appeared at Mount Rose High School for the annual press conference. This gave the group its needed advertisement, and from then on their band was "made."

The dance band's primary function is bringing real dance music to the social parties put on by the school. It plays at all the special dances and also appears at many of the others. The appearance of this group always insures packed crowds, for these "melody makers" have that something everyone wants to hear. The "jive happy" students are held almost breathless as the theme song, "Deep Purple," announces the starting of a very delightful evening.

Students who were unable to get to parties had a chance to hear the dance band when it sponsored an assembly program some time during February. This year the students had a special treat when a former trumpet player with Sammy Kaye's Orchestra appeared with the dance band. This assembly program proved to be one of the most delightful programs during the year.

Other appearances of the band were made at the Elks, York Hospital, Red Lion Business Show, and York Collegiate Institute. These engagements prove that this organization, started by students' request, has attained not only local but county-wide popularity. The fourteen members of the dance band can be justly proud of their accomplishments.

Band

Overtures, marches, waltzes and novelties—what a varied repertoire our high school band has! This, one of the most important musical organizations in R. L. H. S., is the ultimate goal of every instrumentalist of the school, whether he puffs on a tuba or trills on a flute.

After spending some time learning to play his instrument, the student is invited to join the junior band—or, if he has chosen a string instrument, he may join the orchestra. Although these two groups do not make many appearances, they are important training for the years ahead. After some time in one of these organizations, the student's ambition is at last realized—he has finally become a member of the Red Lion High School Band. Then what a wealth of enjoyment awaits him!

With all the activities of the band he is kept quite busy, for the band participates in many extra curricular events. As soon as the school term begins, all members find, to their amazement, that they are definitely out of practice as far as marching goes. So, it's "tramp, tramp, tramp, along the highway" as the marching band strives to perfect drill routines. After what seems years of walking, the group settles down to rehearsing for the Night of Music. Then come detailed practices and the tearing-down of difficult parts into comprehensible notes. After several months of hard work, during which the director is distracted almost to the point of insanity and everyone is worn to a "frazzle," the concert is presented and is billed as another success for Red Lion High School. All in all, the organization has fun, seriousness and work all through the year—no one would want to miss a bit of it.

Glee Club

At the beginning of each school year, the call goes forth for recruits for this organization. All students even slightly interested in music enjoy singing in a group like this, so you may be sure that the glee club is a large group.

The senior high organization is the last in a continuous line of singing groups. First is a grade choir, which occasionally furnishes music at many of our local churches. Next comes the junior high glee club, a group which sings at plays and the like. Last, but not least, is the senior high glee club, the principal singing group of our school. All these organizations participate in the annual Night of Music and may take part in the music festivals about the county. After going through the elementary stages of group singing in the grades and in junior high school, the student discovers that the senior high glee club is quite different from all the rest.

The Junior High Glee Club rehearses diligently under the direction of Miss Spangler.

Orchestra

Every Monday morning this group of fourteen tunes up and practice gets under way. Now and then a word of reproach comes from the director. "No, no! you must use an up-bow, not down-bow." "Please, don't slur your notes, clarinets; tongue them." Soft orchestral music issues from 8B when this group practices. Mellow horn passages float from the depth of the orchestra and a tympani roll suggests far-off thunder. Naturally there are some mistakes; the students just wouldn't be normal if there weren't!

As a member of the orchestra, the young music student begins to "get around a little." The group furnishes entertainment for some of the dramatic productions of our school: this year it provided music for one night of the senior play. Most important of all to the organization is, of course, its concert with the junior band in the spring.

Hilltop

As the first edition of the "Hilltop" rolled off the press this year, the paper began another of the many years it has been part of our school. There are several new things about our school paper this year. The size has been reduced into a handy tabloid from the large edition of former times. Also, the staff is made up of both juniors and seniors.

Nearly all members of the staff study journalism before they can qualify as a writer or editor. This year several freshmen were allowed to take this subject, in order to better prepare themselves for staff membership. In this course, the aspiring journalist learns the "when, why, where, who, and how" of newspaper writing. The next year he may become a full-fledged member of the staff.

This organization is made up of various departments. One of the most important of these is the news department. The students of the section snoop around and see "what's cookin'" in R. L. H. S. Not all of the paper is news, however. Somewhere in a dark corner lurks the feature department, whose editor is nearly driven mad while trying to dream up something different. The sports department adds zest to the paper with sparkling synopses of games—football, basketball, baseball, G. A. A. and intramurals. After all articles are written up, they go to the printer, and in due time, "galleys" are received. Then proof-reading must be done, the paper must be set up, and headlines must be written.

Besides putting out a paper, the "Hilltop" staff participates in several other activities. In the spring the staff and journalism class combine to put on the spring frolic. The staff members attend the annual York-Adams County press conference, or even entertain the journalists from other schools at Red Lion High. Routine work and problems are taken care of in every Monday morning meeting with the advisor, Miss Farlling.

In addition to this editorial staff, there is a business staff which takes care of such matters as advertising and circulation. Both of these units combine to produce a school paper that has enjoyed success and popularity for many years.

Lion

Inaugurating a new custom in Red Lion High School, the staff of the 1947 "Lion" was chosen in the spring of forty-six, giving a general idea of their work, and assigned to their positions. For the photographers, work began immediately, because pictures were vitally needed to give a backbone to the book. Auditorium, classrooms and study halls were invaded in order to secure photos in this rush against time. The work of the editorial staff began in the fall of forty-six, and after receiving their assignments, the assistant editors settled down to a long winter of work. Remnants of this group could be seen on chilly winter mornings huddled about the radiator in the activity office, racking their brains for a new idea. The tremendous task of planning where pictures and write-ups must go fell to the art editor, who relied on the co-editors and advisor for assistance. Snipping, cutting, and chopping came from the corner of the table occupied by this hard-working soul as she trimmed photos to fit. Meanwhile the photographers continued to haunt the halls of R. L. H. S. hoping for a good shot for the book.

After the first rough draft of written material was finished, the editorial staff wrote and rewrote, tore up and revised and the typists pounded out story after story only to retype them. Everyone searched for something new, only to be told that it was "a trite expression" or wouldn't fit. Then as the end of the struggle drew near, the frenzy worked itself to a peak and was done. Finished articles were pasted in the book, pictures fitted nicely into their places and finally the "dummy" was en route to the printers.

But for those on the business staff whose job it had been to secure patrons and run the sale of books in general, this was just a respite—for, come mid-May, theirs would be the task of overseeing the distribution of the 1,275 copies!

"The Fighting Littles"

Along about the middle of October, the minds of the seniors turned to the senior play. The play-reading committee quickly selected a comedy based on the trials and tribulations of family life, and soon tryouts were held, the cast selected, and work on the production begun.

As the scenes of the play began to take shape and the plot unfolded, the cast realized that their play was the hilarious story of a perhaps "not-so-average" family. This family, the Littles, is comprised of people with different opinions about everything. Just because the daughter, Goody, has a few boisterous friends, poor Papa Little goes off into tantrums whenever he sees one of them; and to make it worse, Goody prefers Ham Ellers, whom Mr. Little considers the worst of them all. Then, when papa selects a boy friend for Goody, and when this boy friend brings along an aunt who excites Mr. Little almost to the point of homicide, the result is a hilarious mix-up right up to the end of the play.

Credit goes to the various committees for superb cooperation—the stage crew responsible for erection of the set representing the home of the Littles; the makeup committee for fitting appearances to personalities; the property committee for the dozens of necessary items; and the publicity committee for a record attendance with "standing room only."

"Catch That Thief"

To a junior, the selection of a class play is serious business, but after many headaches from reading stacks and stacks of plays, a haggard but still fighting play-reading committee rendered its decision, and the rush was on. First came tryouts, the time when quaking classmates take the stage and nervously stammer out the lines designated for the particular character. After what seemed ages of waiting, the cast was announced and the work began.

"Catch That Thief" is a mystery comedy revolving about two old maids, Justinia and Sophia Tuttle, who have inherited a fortune in jewels from their brother. Being rather eccentric, they try to keep the fact a secret, but discover to their horror that the papers are full of it. This increases their fear of burglary, so until they can find a way to get the jewels out of the house, they hire a private detective. Their maid, however, is in cahoots with a crook, and the jewels are stolen and re-stolen during the course of the play.

Two very successful nights, in spite of blizzard weather, marked the juniors entrance into the field of drama. Those who saw "Catch That Thief" look forward to next year's production by this class of '48.

Library Club

Perhaps "Service plus fun, and lots of it" would be a good by-slogan for this group of pert lassies you find behind the desk in the library, in the anteroom cataloguing books, helping you in your search for assignment material, or maybe signing the slip that sends you pronto back to the study hall. 'Tis true, they are all "working girls"—they give vital assistance to the school librarian. Yet their organization, founded several years ago with a social purpose in mind, has sponsored a variety of parties, with invited guests on special occasions, and has had a generally good time. Like any other club, the Library Club holds regular business meetings (second Thursday in the month), pays dues, elects officers, and arranges its own activities. Entirely independent of any other school organization, it definitely adds that intangible something to Red Lion High that all activities and organizations add to any school.

The younger generation with a library club of its own prepares for future duties in the library club of senior high.

Time out for a pep assembly as five cheerleaders lead the senior high students in some yells for our team.

Assemblies

Almost anything appears in these weekly Friday morning get-togethers. Perhaps a group of students combine their talents to present a hilarious play or a variety of skits. A pantomime may tickle the funny bone of the audience as some "dignified" upperclassmen perform their crazy antics. Other times there may be a musical program when soloists or trios entertain the student body, or perhaps the entire group participates in an assembly sing. Pep assemblies, too, are held from time to time when the student body needs a little pepping-up.

In addition to the weekly presentations, special programs are presented on special occasions. This year at Christmas time an original dramatization, "The Christmas Carol Album," combined tableaux and Christmas carols. The Easter assembly featured a beautiful religious story in play form. Guest speakers for 1946-7 included Attorney S. S. Laucks, Sr., a former principal of Red Lion High; Mr. Herbert Neefe, mathematical genius; and Mr. Lawrence Bernhardt, world famous pianist.

Assemblies held in the Municipal Building instead of the high school are usually referred to as "paid assemblies" and are attended by both junior and senior high. This year these assemblies featured Mr. Jos. Ellis, specialist on Java, who, in the course of his lecture, displayed interesting articles from the island; and Mr. Loring Campbell, magician, with his wife, herself a ventriloquist and mistress of "Susie."

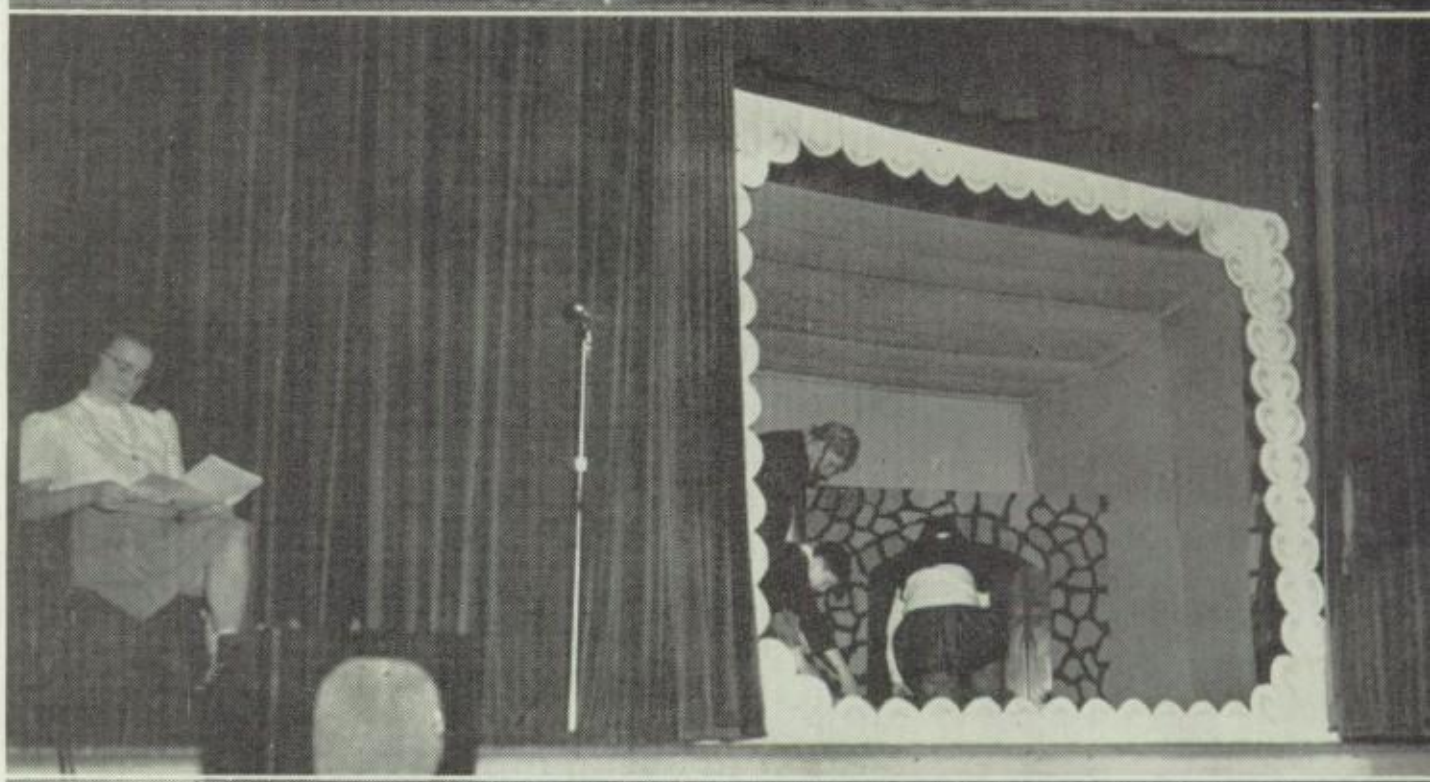
Mr. Bernhardt, talented representative of The Community Concert Series, is about to begin a concerto for an enthusiastic audience.

Caught in the midst of a mysterious trick of magic, Mr. Campbell explains the procedure, only to confuse us more.

Jos. Ellis, world traveler, is explaining Javanese customs and has displayed a wide variety of articles from the island.

Four volunteers "wrap" themselves in bright costumes brought from Java by Mr. Ellis.

The "Drips from Drip Street" boost their product which is sponsoring "Breakfast in Hollywood."



Christmas cards in real life come to a R. L. H. S. assembly.

An embarrassed Krecker slips off the stage as that mathematical wizard, Mr. Neefe, raises applause for his assistance in his program.

Ray Zaner's Poet Scout program over W. S. B. A. is transcribed for broadcast.

F. H. A.

Versatile! Yes, that is the word to describe the Future Homemakers of America. The local chapter of this nation-wide organization was formed in Red Lion this year and already has a large group of followers.

The theme of the club seems to be activities, for new things crop up whenever this group of girls get together. Activities, the hub of an interesting life, really have their time to shine in this organization, for one is planned for every month—and what a variety of events! Sleigh-hayrides on crisp winter nights, a radio broadcast, and many, many other interesting social affairs are on the calendar.

However, the workings of the club are not confined to pleasure. As a service to her country, everyone helped to knit squares for the Red Cross. No doubt some dignified senior was caught muttering to herself, "When do you knit and when do you purl?" During football season, the girls attended several games in a group, helping to cheer our team along toward victory. Members of the organization wrote a song to be vocalized at the Farm Show in Harrisburg. Later in the year the girls broadcasted a radio program and presented a fashion show in order to earn money for their organization. The marvelous way in which these students go at their work is typical of the work of a good student.

Naturally, no high school organization is complete without a faculty advisor. The F. H. A., under the auspices of the Home Economics Department, is supervised by Miss Martha Perry, the home economics instructor. She has helped the girls over rough spots in the first year of their club and has shared with them the many good times that were had. There can be no doubt that, in years to come, the Future Homemakers of America will have a prominent place in the high school.

Strolling off to their day's duties we find the Safety Patrol—N. Kinard, D. Brown, T. Flinchbaugh, P. Frey, G. Shellenberger, B. Barshinger (captain), and L. Waltimyer.

Safety Patrol

"Just a minute, young man! Don't you know better than to run across the street?" Well, the safety patrol is still on the job. Hot or cold, rain or shine, these high school boys are on the alert, safeguarding the lives of the children of our school. The younger set isn't the only class that needs guarding; high school students also disobey the safety-first rules of our community. In fact, several serious accidents occurred and hastened the formation of the school safety patrol.

To be instructed by a real "cop" must be very thrilling, and that is exactly who the instructor of the patrol is—Chief of Police Paul Royer. At their meetings on the third Thursday evening of every month the members of the organization are taught the rules of traffic and what to do in case of an emergency. Although the members of the patrol direct the children across the street, they may not stop a vehicle unless a real emergency occurs. If any of the boys notice a careless or reckless driver, that motorist is to be reported to the police.

Equipped with the well known "Sam Browne" belt, a raincoat and hat, and a red warning flag, these patrolmen, a short time before the closing of school at noon and at three thirty-seven, hasten to their posts so that they may guide our school children across the streets safely. The patrolmen are stationed at the intersections of Pine and Henrietta Streets, First Avenue and North Charles Street, Henrietta and South Main Streets, and the Square. Throughout the school year, these boys have done an excellent job of keeping watch over the younger students of our school.

Cheerleaders

What football game would be complete without these peppy "gals" in gold and black ripping through a string of cheers? And would a basketball game seem right unless the old gym shook with the yells led by them? Of course not! We all know that cheerleaders are very important to both team and spectators alike. No matter what the weather, they are there, leading the crowd in favorite cheers and cheering the team on to victory.

At the beginning of the school year the cheerleaders dust off their megaphones and dig their uniforms out of the moth balls. Then come hours of practice for the new members and "brushing up" of the routine by the veteran members. Soon comes the first football game, the thrill of the game, flying colors, strains of a brass band, the bustle of the crowd—and the cheerleaders are off on another year of action.

Three squads our school boasts—each responsible to his own group—three squads of girls who make it their job to be on hand to arouse pep and boost morale, be the game a minor contest or a championship determinant.

SCHOOL SOCIAL COMMITTEE—P. Warner, J. Austin, S. McGuigan, J. Markey, J. Fauth, Miss Farlling, Miss Myers, Mr. Moore, Mrs. Nelson, J. Golden.

Social Activity Committee

As a change in the setting up of a social calendar this year came the organization of a social activity committee. One member of each class was chosen to represent that class in the committee, and the work began. These people met with members of the faculty and worked out a calendar that included all the social events of the year.

First on the list was a Fall Dance, and what an event! Our old gym was decorated in an outdoor manner, with corn shocks bristling out from corners and with crepe paper artistically draped across the ceiling. An old wheel and an ancient stump, both overhung with twigs and leaves, gave the dance floor an air of mystery and romance as shadows from the dancers flickered over all. Other fall events included the junior high Hallowe'en Party, and the Football Dance. Then as thoughts of jolly old Saint Nick began to fill everyone's minds, the juniors provided a good time for our students by holding a delightful Christmas Dance. A large tree, bedecked with all sorts of ornaments and flanked by two giant candles, gracefully adorned one end of the gym, while crepe paper formed the rest of the decorations.

Next, two weekends in February proved to hold a large store of entertainment for both junior and senior high, with a Valentine Dance for each. First, on February seventh, the junior high students honored their Prince and Princess of Hearts, then senior high on February fifteenth arrived in the gym, ready to honor their majesties, the King and Queen of Hearts. With spring came the Spring Frolic, sponsored by the "Hilltop" staff and the journalism class. Finally, to end the social activities of the year came that big event, the Junior-Senior Prom. As the couples passed down the reception line and then slowly swung out on the dance floor, the students of senior high realized that another precious year was gone, but with that thought came a prophecy of years to come; of more social events in future years of school.

Fiddles and square dancing made the Junior Journalism Jamboree a novelty in R. L. H. S. parties.

Sitting and standing on a hay-covered floor these "plaid bedecked" fellows and girls surround the "King and Queen of Fun."

The Football Dance was a success, and was well attended, as can be seen by this shot of the dance floor.

A feminine football squad, "Nitch-key's Pin Up Girls," put on a humorous act in honor of the Foot-ball King.

Soft lights and sweet music start off the Christmas Dance.

National Honor Society

Scholarship, leadership, character, and service—these are the four principles of the National Honor Society, the organization which represents the ultimate honor to many high school students. Members are selected by a committee consisting of five faculty members, the high school principal, and the supervising principal.

To be eligible for membership a student must be superior scholastically, and an outstanding participant in extra-curricular activities. This may be one or more of several things—a member of "Hilltop" or "Lion" staff, a character in a play, a member of a sports team, or a committee member for any of the school social activities, etc. Conduct, correct attitude toward school, and co-operation with other students and teachers also form an important part in the election of a society member. Too, a student's character is most important when he is "talked over" before being selected. The committee members must ask themselves: "Is he honest? dependable? sincere? capable? Does he serve his school whenever possible?"

On February 14 this year the fortunate juniors and seniors were notified. The group now has twelve senior members and three junior members. Those elected as juniors are automatically members during their senior year, unless they fail to uphold the principles of the society. The installation service for these new members is one of the most impressive assemblies of the senior high school. At this time, new members sign their names on the scroll of the society and are received officially into membership. To be elected to the National Honor Society is a great honor; to be able to carry its principles through life is greater still.

N. A. S. S.

One of the most important organizations to a boy interested in sports is the National Athletic Scholarship Society. Throughout his sports career the boy is preparing for membership in this organization by cultivating all the good traits of an athlete and by participating in sports.

Of all the important factors to be considered, the first is good sportsmanship. A good sportsman does not argue with his coach and fellow teammates, he does not scowl at the referee when that official makes a decision against his team, but he does cooperate with his coach and friends in making the game a success.

Another qualification is good scholarship. The fellow who would like to join the group must not forget about his lessons in his enthusiasm toward sports. Naturally it takes work—hard work—to keep up a good average in lessons and to train one's body to stand the rigors of the game. Good citizenship is also required for membership. The candidate must possess those qualities that make him an outstanding "citizen" of Red Lion High School. Besides all these, of course each fellow must be an outstanding participant in one or more sports, and must have a varsity letter in his possession.

Because of the variety of sports here in R. L. H. S. the boy may select his favorite. It may be football—strictly a "he-man's" game. A strong line, fast backfield and good offensive and defensive tactics depend on the boys who make up the team. The same is true with basketball. To take part in this sport a boy must be quick in both mind and body. In baseball he must be able to get under that elusive ball and hold it. He must be good at bat, too, and must be able to run fairly well. There are so many different types of sports and so many qualifications that each boy can almost choose his part individually.

Red Cross

Through the efforts of home room sponsors and the cooperation of the various departments, projects were carried on in R. L. H. S. for the Red Cross. The art department, as in former years, was responsible for the making of a large quantity of menu covers and birthday cards for hospitalized veterans. To help the needy children in foreign countries, grades one to twelve filled seventy boxes with numerous useful articles and playthings, and in return received letters from grateful boys and girls overseas.

Annually there is a scramble to see which home room can be first to display the "one hundred per cent sticker" on its door. Buttons and membership cards find their way to every corner of the building, and everyone rushes to meet the quota. Again Red Lion High has come through, handing in a sum far exceeding that amount.

Miss Myers, faculty advisor of our Junior Red Cross, presents a check for $126.00 to Mrs. Ruth M. Sponsler, Secretary of the York Chapter, as four sponsors—C. Krecker, J. Taylor, N. Trout, and N. Mitzel—look on.

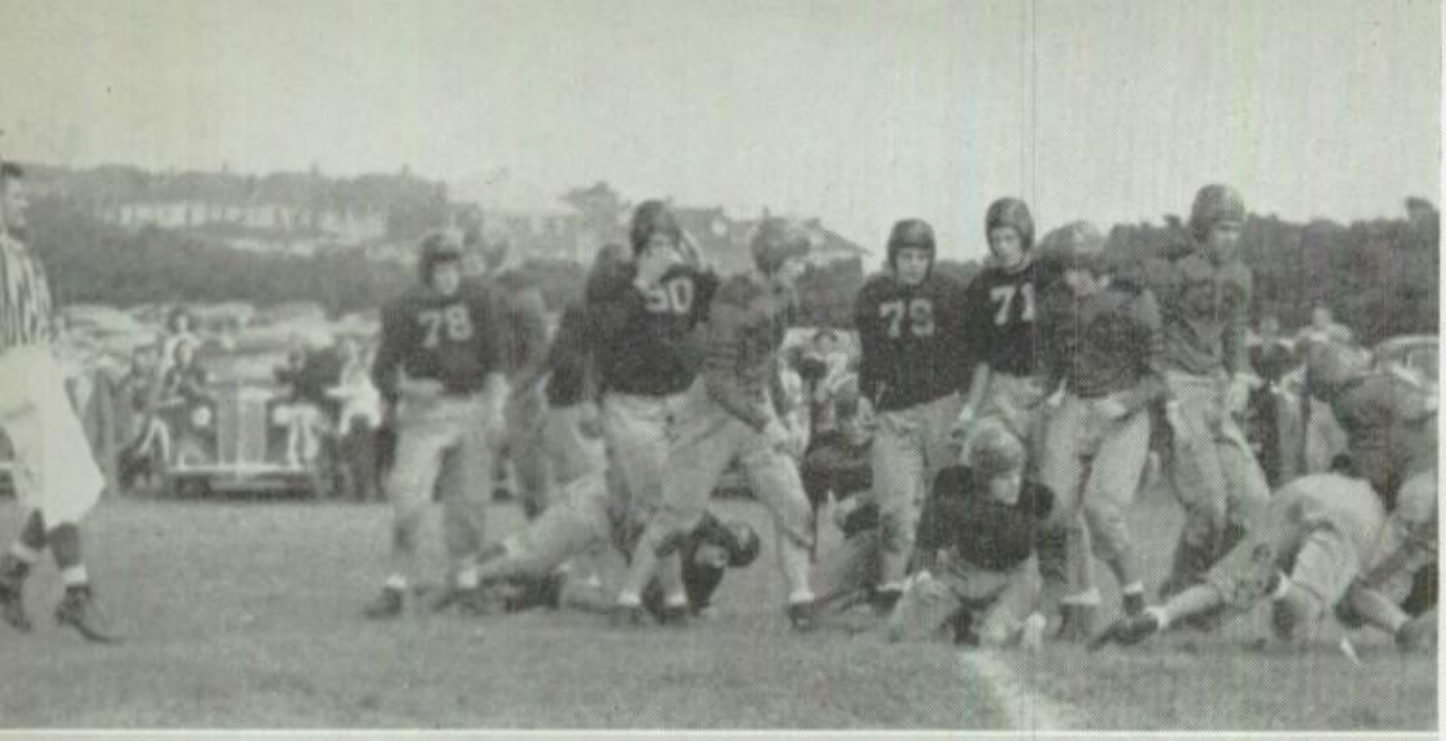
Football

As the final whistle blew at the final football game on November 9, 1946, the students and spectators of Red Lion had a tranquil, contented look on their faces. The season had proved to be a beautiful success with the winning of seven games out of a total of nine. What more could be asked of our boys when such a splendid record was obtained?

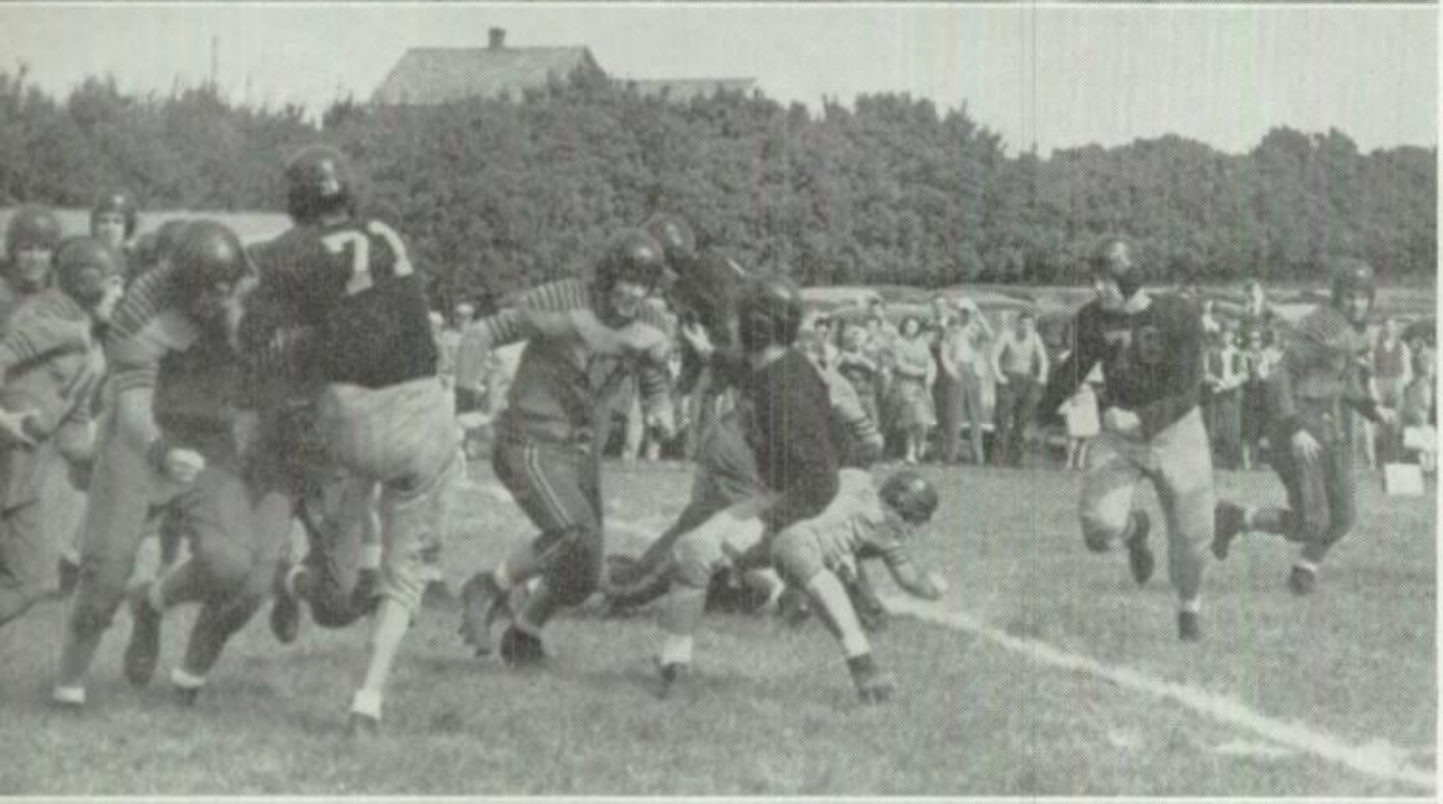
Red Lion went smashing through by winning every one of their first six games. Lititz was overthrown by Red Lion's powerful eleven, who stormed through to the 40-yard line. This rival team had defeated our boys during last year's football season, so they made it their business to check this sturdy team who had tricky angles up their sleeves. Another mighty foe, Lemoyne, was also dumb-struck as the Gold and Black team again proved its strength. In this exciting game, the locals scored twice in the remaining nine minutes of the game.

Ephrata's well-organized and powerful team brought Red Lion its first defeat. The two strong teams seemed to have equal power until Ephrata came over the top with a score of 6 to 0. Manheim Township also proved to have an excellent team as it gave Red Lion its second loss of the football season, but a close score of 6 to 7 showed that our boys were hot on the rival's tracks. By these two games the Lions lost their chance of a title in the Conference of Roses and the Lower Susquehanna League. This was a tough break for the Gold and Black, but they struck back hard when they defeated West York in their final game by an overwhelming victory of 45 to 0.

Even though the losses may have hurt a bit, Red Lion's students and its faithful rooters kept their chins up and smiled, for they felt that their squad had done its best. For their long hours of practice and tough work-outs, these fellows have been rewarded with their winning of tough games and the support of many friends.



One of Red Lion's backs scores against Lititz as majority of the line looks on.



Lemoyne begins an off tackle play as McGuigan comes in to help plug the hole, and Paules is taken from his position.

"Fats" goes off tackle as Grove and Snyder try desperately to pinch the Lemoyne player.

Smith goes around the end and is tackled 8 yards from the goal by the Ephrata players.

Basketball

Time after time our speedy cagers rolled up beautiful scores as the games flew by. Boisterous were the hearty cries that rang out through the gymnasium as the basketeers of the Gold and Black scored again and again. Long, tiresome practices were a very important factor in the build-up of the team. The junior high team underwent as many tough work-outs, and even though their season was seemingly unsuccessful, they did their best by being on the alert and displaying swift action.

The senior high group overpowered tough rivals who were really out to get them. Dallastown, an old-time rival, was sadly disappointed when the Lion cagers displayed their powerful tactics during both games. Another mighty foe was York Catholic who gave its fans a decidedly different idea about their team, when our boys knuckled down and showed them who was boss. But defeat prevailed when West York outclassed our team in both their games of the season with us. The rival team was a little too much for our boys, especially in the first game. In their second game, the locals gave the "Bulldog" lads a merry chase by holding the score only a few points apart.

Red Lion obtained first place in the Northern League when York Catholic subdued West York, but the cries and cheers which prevailed when this glad news was broken to the fans turned to disappointment when powerful North York toppled our team, throwing it from its championship position. Nevertheless, everyone was well satisfied with the results that were obtained by our fellow sportsmen. Out of a total of eighteen games only three were losses. No one can deny that our well-trained team did a super job during the basketball season.

Baseball

Strike two, strike three, you're out!—and the Red Lion Team capsized another opponent. The Gold and Black team was really "hep" during the season, giving out with a tremendous fighting effort. As a result, ten games out of thirteen were chalked up for the Lions; and after so much pep, vim, and vigor was used, why not? Often the team was up against tough odds, but as usual the boys produced quite a bit of stiff competition for the opponents. The fellows always showed tip-top shape and splendid cooperation which made their chances of victory nearly certain.

In the two tussles with East Berlin, the Gold and Black team really did its stuff and crushed the opponents both times. During the first battle, Nevin Grim hit the fourth home run of the game in the seventh inning, which gave Red Lion its winning tally. New Freedom, Stewartstown, and Codorus were also trampled under the powerful weight of the Lions. In one of the New Freedom games, not one of the opponent's players reached third base. Eleven batters were fanned and a beautiful three-hit pitching job was enacted by one of our fellows. Points were chalked up and the team really ranked high. Coming in contact with Codorus team, the locals packed a heavy blow by fairly running away with the game. "Big Donald" Grove collected a home run and a triple in the fourth inning. Another rival, Stewartstown, was left in the dust when "Penny" Smith produced a show-down by striking out eleven batters and allowing only three hits.

The teamwork of the Gold and Black really baffled the opponents and because of the skilful tactics which they used, the boys became Champions of the Southern Division, but lost in league finals to North York. Much well-deserved credit undoubtedly can be handed out to such a snappy team.

Grove rounds third in the game against Stewartstown as Mr. Hangen calls to runner rounding second.

Track

"Get those legs up!" "Run a little harder!" These were some of the comments addressed to the junior and senior high boys who went out for track during the 1946 season. These ambitious fellows tackled strenuous practices, which in the end loosened up their muscles and gave them outstanding speed and energy. The boys' track team was composed of a junior and senior high team that had work-out upon work-out. The team was one of endurance which every night, under Coach Nitchkey's instructions, did a cooperative job in practicing such feats as the discus throw, 50-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 440-yard dash, mile relay, broad jump, etc.

Many boys answered the call for track and, although the going was tough and much time was used, everyone stuck to his job. In the various yard dashes, much vim and vigor was put forth, and often muscles became sore and breath short, but the fellows still went back for more. Those who could undergo a bit more speed tried for the mile relay. Later one of them was able to star at the track meet in this tough relay. Several others who wished to reach a bit of altitude practiced the high jump and the broad jump. With leaps and bounds they underwent these tiresome exercises, hour after hour, day after day.

But all this energy was not in vain. The hard work of these boys was rewarded at the York County Field Meet, where Red Lion won second place. Possibly the most exciting event of the thrill-packed day was the class A Mile Relay, when the crack Red Lion team overcame a ten yards handicap to nose out North York. Also, in the dual meet with West York, Red Lion amassed almost twice as many points as its rival. With the current interest, track will inevitably become a permanent sport at R. L. H. S.

G. A. A.

Among the many activities at Red Lion High, one of the most popular with the girls is Girls' Athletic Association. This peppy organization plays a large part in the lives of the girls of the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades who are interested in sports. Each year there is an overwhelming response from the girls who ambitiously enter this pastime of muscular exertion. The weaker sex really isn't so weak when it takes part in the various activities of the G. A. A.

Many different sports are tackled by these vigorous girls. With teamwork they put forth a striking effort and really give out with some mighty muscular work. During volleyball season, teams of the various grades are organized and each battles against the others. The same is done during basketball and mushball season. The beautiful spring weather stimulates a yen for mushball games when home-runs are tallied up for many of the peppy players. During some of the winter months these girls venture to the Y. W. C. A. for a swim. What a thrill this is, and it really goes over big with them all.

Last, but not least, these ambitious young ladies have also formed a track team, and I do mean a track team. In the early cold of spring they practiced and re-practiced such events as the 50-yard dash, shuttle relay, and basketball and baseball throws. Two nights a week for nearly six weeks, one could find ambitious lassies in the park or on the baseball diamond, running and throwing for all they were worth, and when May 10, 1946, rolled around, the survivors of the elimination contests were ready to journey to the county track meet at York. In reward for their splendid efforts, these ladies of sport captured awards of first, second, third, and fourth place in the shuttle relays, 50-yard dash, and basketball and baseball throws.

G. A. A. is represented in the County track meet by B. Snyder and B. J. Knisley.

Some rest while others go through a workout.

The action seems to be further down the floor in this after-school game.

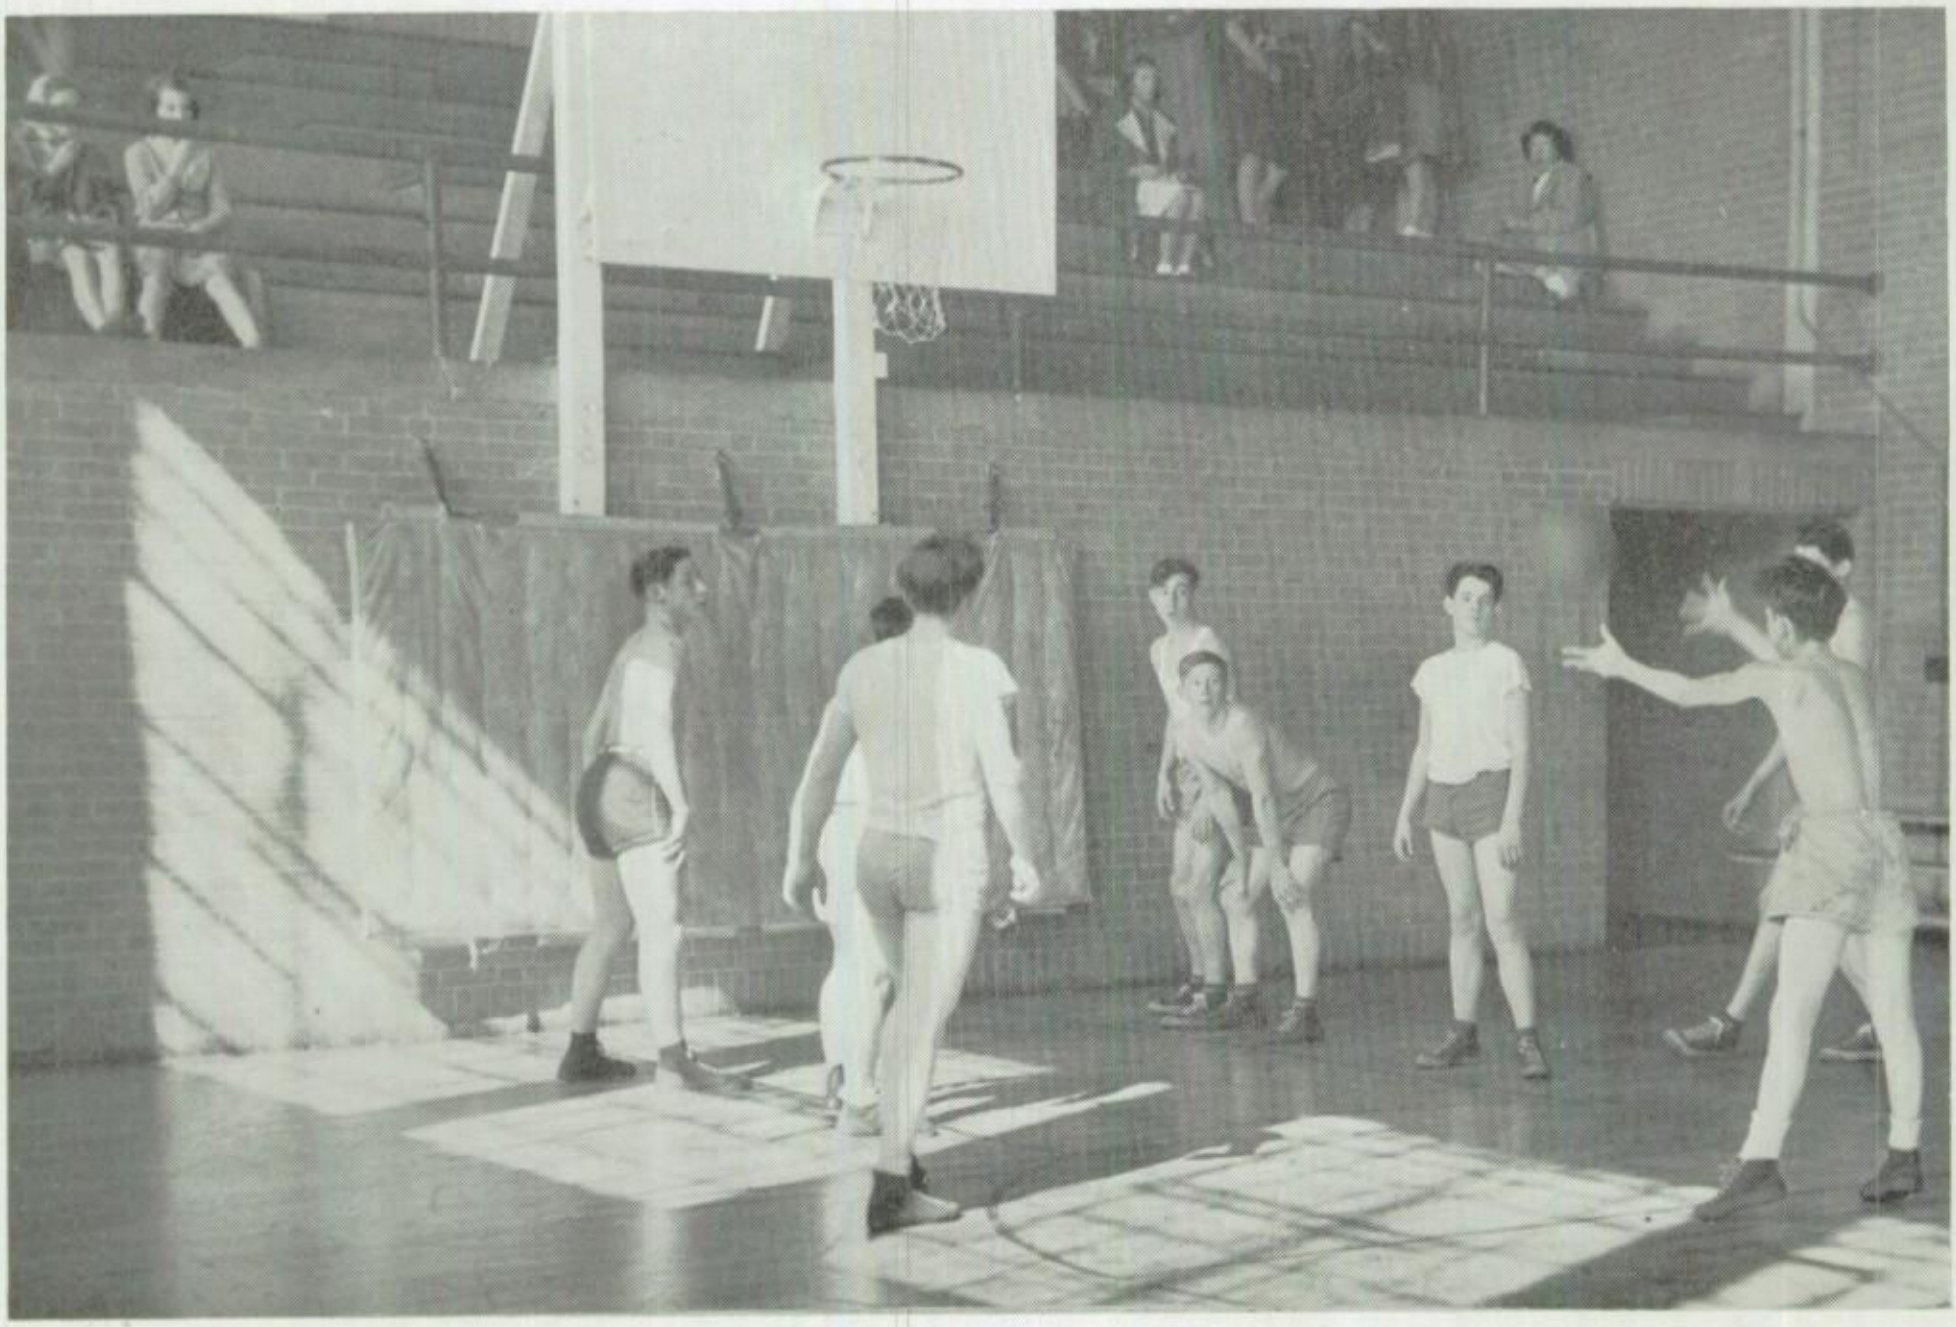
That elusive ball goes 'way up toward the basket.

Miss Hoopes gives a few helpful hints to the G. A. A. officers—J. Frey, M. Sechrist (secretary-treasurer), R. Grim (president), J. Markey, P. Rhodes (vice-president), J. Markey, R. Kurtz.

With the ball in the air, the girls await their turn to volley it over the net.

Caught in the midst of a game in a G. A. A. "round robin," the girls wait for the ball to be served.

What! Going swimming in this weather!! Yes, but these G. A. A. members are on their way to the Y. W. C. A. at York.



A game of boys' intramurals reaches an exciting peak.

Boys' Intramurals

Checking on the many, many activities for the masculine sex at Red Lion's busy school, one finds the boys' intramurals. For added exercise to loosen up their limbs, various ambitious students have entered this organized group. Sports such as volleyball, basketball, and softball undergo a terrific beating by the vigorous fellows who really put on a peppy show.

During the noon hour the gym is taken over by the out-of-town boys who battle away in the intramurals. Four teams are organized to play in turn the various games. These fellows, without a doubt, have no trouble working off their noon-day meal. The gym fairly trembles during volleyball and basketball games by the continuous running and jumping. In the early fall and the warmth of spring, softball games are sure to be under way. Cheering and yelling is heard from everywhere by energetic fans who witness the sports.

After school hours, the boys from town go through the same procedure as the rural boys. Each team gives out with quite a bit of stiff competition; and, as a result, moments filled with loads of fun are sure to be had by everyone. The winning teams from both the rural and local groups have a final play-off to determine the champions, after each team has played twenty games of each sport.

Grades

"Little, but mighty" may enthusiastically and correctly be applied to the up-and-coming grade school children, who are really very active in all school and town affairs. They rightly deserve praise and should be congratulated on their fine cooperation. Have you ever wondered, after watching them at a football game, just where they get all their pep and vigor? All through the grades the children are taught how to study, work, and play together. Many a teacher is getting gray hair before her time, but she is more than justly rewarded with the marvelous results. Just remember, "Children will be children," the next time you are the mark for a snowball molded by one of our playful friends.

Seventh Grade

Often called the "freshies of the junior high school," these students usually are shy and quiet the first few days of school—but after that—look out! Judging from their actions in school and at football games, they seem to live two different lives, both having their advantages. (Of course, we remember how new we once felt and how we were slightly bewildered by the novel routine we had to follow.) When name cards and pictures arrive, they practically swamp the seniors by their demands, for it seems they too are collectors.

Not having much of a chance to become very active in school affairs, because older students tend to look on them as small "kids" and incapable of doing anything of much value, nevertheless they have proven themselves to be quite efficient in their social ventures. Too, their various talents are being put into use in junior band, glee club, and the orchestra. The youngster whom you may have seen in the senior band, and whose appearance gave you the impression that he hadn't grown as rapidly as his uniform, probably is one of the outstanding musicians in this class. Yes, whether we realize it or not, these students are trying to be another class Red Lion High School can be proud of.

Eighth Grade

After one year in junior high school, these eighth graders give you the appearance of knowing their way around. Observing them, you are aware that they are absorbing a little more of the knowledge offered and outgrowing their childish pranks. Of course, they still love to play practical jokes on people and cause excitement once in a while—who doesn't? On the whole, the entire class takes a more active part in all the school affairs. They aren't satisfied just to sit by and watch the others, because they are acquainted with the customs of the junior-high school now, and they want to be included in the activities. Everyone thinks seriously of just what course he or she intends to take in high school, and a few decide on the vocation they would enjoy after school days are over. The social affairs interest everyone, with these underclassmen being no exception. They sponsored the Junior High Valentine Dance, which was a big success — some even had sweethearts!

Freshmen

The newcomers of the high school are the freshmen. We, as seniors, can remember how it feels to be new and can so much more readily appreciate the efforts put forth by this class of '50. The infants of high school, but the leaders of junior high, are faced with many new problems and responsibilities. Proof of how well they can handle their social affairs was shown when they sponsored the successful Junior High Hallowe'en Party. Noise and laughter can very well be associated with this class because of the presence of a large number of so-called comedians. Although young in years, their ideas and actions are much more advanced. Of course, you may doubt this statement after observing them for a short time. Without the support of the "freshies," many senior high activities would, without a doubt, be a failure or a much smaller success. It seems as if "Kilroy was here" is their password or motto, because they have written it over the entire school. A large number are very active in glee club, senior band, sports, and assemblies. Three of the girls have been given the honor of drum majorettes for the senior band. Yes, the way it looks now, Red Lion High activities for the next few years will be in enthusiastic and capable hands.

Sophomores

The long-hoped-for year has finally arrived for these students, because they now are in senior high school and can call each other "Sophy." In the eyes of the juniors and seniors at the beginning of the year, the sophomores were considered a bit backward, but every eye was opened with surprise as the "babies" became more accustomed to senior-high activities.

The boys' participation in school sports is closely followed by their classmates of the fairer sex, and the girls themselves have had a chance to sparkle by taking an active part in intramural sports sponsored by the G. A. A. An outstanding percentage of the class is active in the assemblies, senior band, and glee club. Even the "Hilltop" has felt the presence of the sophomores, because a journalism class was formed again this year.

Juniors

The hardy supporters of the senior high activities and the seniors are the juniors. They entered Red Lion High as "freshies" in the fall of 1944 with outstanding school spirit and leadership in everything. It has kept the present seniors quite busy trying to keep one step ahead of them during the past three years. Varsity football claimed a large number of the biggest and strongest males this year, making the chances for a good team next school term very likely. The weaker sex proved themselves good athletes when they beat a few so-called "good" senior girl teams in intramural basketball. Without a few of the junior fellows, our varsity basketball team would have been less successful. Believe it or not, even with all their school work and outside activities, they made their class play a very big success. Yes, Hollywood better look out! For the first time, the juniors and seniors have combined their journalism talents to produce the monthly "Hilltop." The results have been exceedingly good, making the paper a "top-notch" edition. As the time of Class Day and graduation draws near, the juniors will be called on, by the seniors, to do much of the work. This has been a custom, more or less, for several years, for on Class Day these present juniors will officially become the seniors, the leaders of the school.

Senior Class History

CLASS COLORS ..... Blue and silver
CLASS FLOWER ..... Red rose
CLASS MOTTO ..... "The horizons of life are as broad as we make them"

As the class of '47 nears its last days at Red Lion High, everyone's thoughts recall the past four years spent in study, games, and parties. What a grand and glorious feeling one hundred and fifty-four students had in the fall of '43! Why, we were "freshies"—the lords of junior high school! Maybe a few were bashful and uncertain, but when the door marked "Enter to Learn" opened into our sophomore year, most of us had plenty of pluck in trying out for various organizations.

From then on, life for most of us became a busy round of activities. For three years we gave our best brawn to the sports world—that those boys were good is evidenced by the number of letters you see on sweaters and jackets, and by the fact that eight seniors now claim membership in the N. A. S. S. And if you've any doubt as to our contribution to band and glee club, you should see the vacant seats in our home rooms during the periods those groups meet. In the field of journalism we've made our mark—yearbook, school newspaper, and a sizable bit of poetry writing on the side. Our successful productions, "Mumbo Jumbo" and "The Fighting Littles" will go down in the history of R. L. H. S. dramatics. Socially we've varied from hill-billies at a jamboree to the ultra-modern at the spring prom. And scholastically—well, perhaps we didn't always do our very, very best, but a good percentage of our class have been on honor roll quite frequently, and we do have twelve members in the National Honor Society.

And now, it's spring, 1947. We've survived the mad rush of name cards, pictures, announcements, and all those other typically senior occurrences. Our yearbook has gone to press, we've turned the "Hilltop" over to our successors; and at the concert, senior musicians gave their farewell performance. We're ready to graduate—but we know that many, many times we will look back with a certain nostalgia on these years at Red Lion High.
